Advisory Committee meeting recap

The Cemetery and Funeral Bureau held an Advisory Committee meeting on June 7, 2012, in Sacramento. The meeting was attended by a mix of licensees and consumer advocates, as well as the Advisory Committee members and Department of Consumer Affairs staff. Below is a recap of the meeting, with brackets containing information that has been updated since the meeting was held.

Bureau Chief Lisa M. Moore called the meeting to order at approximately 10:05 a.m. and welcomed those in attendance. Advisory Committee members in attendance were Merrill Mefford, Fredrick Belt, Phyllis Montero, Robert Mull, and John Resich. (Cheryll Moore and Caroline Flanders were absent.) Ms. Moore thanked the Committee members for agreeing to serve a second term on the Advisory Committee and informed them that she expected this Committee to be a less formal, more interactive one that participated even between meetings, as the Bureau needs their expertise as demonstrated by Phyllis Montero and Cheryll Moore assisting in the development of the Bureau's new brochure, Peace of Mind. Ms. Moore then discussed various staffing vacancies within the Bureau, including the Deputy Chief position that she vacated when she was appointed Bureau Chief [now filled by Joy Korstjens], and the recent retirement of Mary Hintemeyer in the Licensing Unit [replaced by Audrey Larkin].

Following the opening remarks by Ms. Moore was a briefing on the status of Cemetery Maintenance Standards (proposed Section 2333 of Division 23, Title 16 of the California Code of Regulations). Ms. Korstjens explained the informal process that led to the current proposed regulatory language for cemetery maintenance standards; i.e., the meetings beginning with the previous Advisory Committee, the March 2011 workshop, the May 2011 focus group, followed by the presentation of that redrafted language to the current Advisory Committee in June 2011, all of which led up to the publication of the final language in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) California Regulatory Notice Register on April 13, 2012.

Ms. Moore thanked everyone for participating in the informal process that led to the final language filed with OAL. Ms. Korstjens deferred to Gary

Duke of DCA's Legal Affairs Office, who took over the discussion and referred to the OAL Rulemaking Process Flow Chart [available on the Bureau's Web site www.cfb.ca.gov under "Proposed Regulations"] for information on how the regulatory process works now that formal rulemaking has begun, and emphasized that the language stands as is once the formal rulemaking process starts.

Mr. Duke stated the regulatory hearing on July 12, 2012, was the time for stakeholders to provide verbal or written comments on the proposed language. After that, the Bureau Chief and the Director of Consumer Affairs would consider all comments prior to filing with OAL, after which OAL has six weeks to approve or reject, although usually OAL will notify the Bureau if there is a problem and then the Bureau can issue a 15-day Notice and fix it.

After OAL approval, proposed regulation would be filed with the Secretary of State and then become regulation 30 days after that. Ms. Moore commented that the process has been somewhat lengthy and challenging, but that the Bureau plans to go forward with any future regulation packages in the same manner.

Ms. Moore stated that the issue of the Web site revision was placed before the Advisory Committee members last year, but that the Bureau only received one suggestion and it wasn't something we could implement with the current computer system used by DCA. When the Bureau converts to the new BreEZe computer system in 2013, functionality will be improved. However, the Bureau is aware that the Web site could be more user friendly in the meantime, and it is something that Ms. Korstjens and Richard Hernandez are working on; the new Web site is slated to be finished in August [extended to the fall due to staffing constraints].

As far as the newsletter, the CFB Advocate, formerly titled The Tolling Bell, Ms. Moore reminded those in attendance that the publication can be found on the Web site and was the first of the Bureau's publications to get a new look. Due to staffing cutbacks, the newsletter is now only published twice a year, but that also keeps the content meaningful. Ms. Moore asked that attendees give feedback on the articles and let the Bureau know what they would like to read in future editions. Although the Bureau cannot afford to print and mail the newsletter to interested parties, alerts regarding its publication are sent via e-mail to subscribers of the Bureau's List Serve, which anyone can sign up for on the Bureau's Web site. Ms. Korstjens asked attendees to e-mail her directly with any article ideas and feedback as she is the primary editor/author of the CFB Advocate.

Mr. Duke then shared with the Advisory Committee members the letter addressed to them from Christine Williams regarding the proposed cemetery maintenance standards, which would be addressed in the formal rulemaking process.

Next was a discussion of proposed changes to funeral regulations in accordance with the Bureau's Strategic Plan. Ms. Moore reviewed the history of the Bureau's interest in revising the regulations. She revealed that the concept began with several of her predecessors, followed by another working group, and that the recommendations that came out of those meetings were broken into separate packages for ease of processing, beginning with the Section 100 changes (changes that are without regulatory effect, meaning they are nonsubstantive and technical in nature) that were completed in fall 2011. The Bureau is now moving onto the regulatory packages we are referring to as "General" and "Enforcement" [viewable on the Bureau's Web site].

In addition to the amendment and/or repeal of those existing funeral regulations, the Bureau is drafting the regulations for Limited Liability Companies (LLC) on the cemetery side [also on the Bureau's Web site]. The Bureau is planning to hold an all-day workshop on August 16 to discuss all three proposed regulation packages with stakeholders. Ms. Korstjens stated that the general package included such diverse regulations topics as sanitation, removal vehicles, the Authorization for Disposition With or Without Embalming form, etc., and that the enforcement package included the cite-and-fine sections and the continuing education regulations, which were originally included in the Section 100 changes but which OAL rejected, stating they needed to go through the formal rulemaking process instead. Mr. Duke mentioned that the Department of Finance and the State and Consumer Services Agency also must review the Bureau's proposed regulations before they can be submitted to OAL, which adds to the amount of time it takes to complete any regulatory package.

Ms. Moore began the discussion of revisions to the Consumer Guide to Funeral and Cemetery Purchases by stating that statutes on both the funeral and cemetery side state that the Bureau needs to work with industry to develop and/or revise the Consumer Guide to Funeral and Cemetery Purchases, and that the changes made in 2010 were nonsubstantive and related to contact information only. Advisory Committee member John Resich agreed to take the lead in working with the other Advisory Committee members on this project, as well as making sure that the information gets out to industry and other stakeholders, and report back at the next meeting. It was suggested that industry not only be notified when a new revision was published, but also informed on how to handle old stock, and that perhaps it would be best to have new editions of the consumer guide published in January to coincide with the effective date of the new laws.

Ms. Moore briefly explained that the next discussion issue, noncompliance in industry practices, was placed on the Bureau's Strategic Plan 2011-2014 by her predecessor [Bev Augustine] and that the topic was intended to solicit comments on areas of noncompliance the Bureau needs to look at. The only issue raised by an audience member was related to standardization of the General Price List, so that it was easier to tell if it was in compliance with the FTC Funeral Rule; essentially proposed that a template be created, especially in the delineation of services.

During the portion of the meeting devoted to public comment on items not on the agenda, Marjorie Bridges of the Funeral Consumers Alliance made several comments based upon telephone calls she had received, including the general lack of knowledge on the part of many attorneys on funeral and cemetery law, to which Mr. Duke responded that, yes, it is a specialty field. Ms. Bridges also felt that the process for home/farm burial needed to be easier, which Mr. Duke advised would need a statutory change, and various attendees related their experiences with the issue. Ms. Bridges continued by stating the majority of her calls are from people who cannot afford a funeral, and she was contemplating the necessary steps to starting a nonprofit organization to help people with funding.

Advisory Committee member Robert Mull related how Orange County, where he is employed with the Public Administrator's office, is inundated with indigent cases. He emphasized that the term "indigent" was not limited to the homeless, but included many seniors and others with limited incomes. Several audience members related their experiences with similar cases, as well as custody and duty of internment issues. Mr. Mull also recommended Ms. Bridges and others familiarize themselves with the Unforgettables Foundation, a nonprofit organization that helps low-income families pay for final arrangements for children, as well as the repatriation services offered by the Mexican Consulate for deceased Mexican citizens. Mention was also made of a new Funeral Consumers Alliance group, the FCA of Southern California, consisting of Orange, Los Angeles, Ventura, and Santa Barbara counties.

Ms. Moore asked members if they were willing to meet again on November 15, 2012. It was agreed that was acceptable, and that the time and location would be announced later. On behalf of the Advisory Committee, Mr. Mull congratulated Ms. Moore on her appointment as Bureau Chief. As there were no other comments, the meeting was adjourned at approximately noon.

National Cemeteries date back to Civil War times

By Audrey Larkin

The Civil War (1861-1865) was a devastating time of human loss and grief. This monumental period of American history marked the first time the country had ever seen such a vast loss of human life. This event created a need for a respectable burial option for those who served. The individuals who served are gone but not forgotten, thanks to the national cemeteries created in the wake of that war that are now historic landmarks enjoyed by all who have an interest in learning about this piece of American history.

Camp Sumter/Andersonville Prison – Andersonville, Georgia

This prison once held nearly 45,000 Union soldiers, making it one of the largest Confederate prisons in the war. It now has more than 13,000 interments and a park for visitors to explore a vital piece of American history. The site also hosts a National Prisoner of War Museum and is considered a memorial site for all American prisoners of war. The museum has stories, artifacts, and graphics that explain prisoner of war experiences. The park is open year around and visitors may tour via an audio tour that explores both the cemetery and prison.

Gettysburg National Military Park – Gettysburg, Pennsylvania

The Battle of Gettysburg was one of the most significant points of the Civil War and occurred at a time when the nation was at a turning point. The Union victory came not without great loss.

The town of Gettysburg was filled with wounded soldiers and to meet the demand, Camp Letterman General Hospital was established. However, at the end of the battle, the number of graves was so high that residents became concerned about their poor condition. The residents advocated for the purchase of the battlefield to be used as the “Soldiers’ National Cemetery.” On November 19, 1863, the cemetery was dedicated to the men who died in Gettysburg. By 1895 the cemetery was converted to a National Military Park and remains a national landmark for those who wish to honor the lives lost in the war. A walking tour of the cemetery is available, and many other events are available in the park such as customized tours, youth campgrounds, self-guided auto tours, and saloon-style refreshments.

Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania National Military Park – Fredericksburg, Virginia

Four pivotal battles occurred on these grounds in 18 months during the Civil War, resulting in more than 100,000 men killed, many of whom are buried in unknown graves. This site is the second largest military park in the world and consists of four battlefields and five historic structures. Visitor attractions in addition to the cemetery include a 7-mile trail, Old Salem Church, and a historic plantation home.

New addition to Bureau staff

In August, the Bureau welcomed Audrey Larkin as its newest Licensing Analyst. Audrey is enthusiastic about protecting consumers and has experience working at the Department of Mental Health and the Department of Managed Health Care. She is attending California State University, Sacramento, to obtain her master’s degree in school psychology. In her spare time, she likes to read, cook vegetarian meals, and be tormented by her three cats.

Workshop held to discuss rulemaking topics

The Bureau held a one-day workshop on August 16, 2012, to discuss three separate proposed rulemaking topics.

The morning session dealt with proposed regulations to be added to Division 23 of Title 16 of the California Code of Regulations (CCR) for Limited Liability Companies (LLC) in accordance with Senate Bill 1225 (Harman, Chapter 114, Statutes of 2008). Very little comment from attendees was received on this topic, other than the suggestion to change “radius” to “driving distance” in CCR Section 2326.5.

For ease of reference and for processing purposes, the Bureau identified the funeral regulation packages as general and enforcement. The first half of the afternoon focused on the amendments proposed to the existing general funeral regulations (Division 12 of Title 16 of the California Code of Regulations Sections 1209, 1214, 1216, 1221, 1255, 1258, 1258.1, 1258.2, 1258.3, and 1258.4). Section 1258 gathered the most comments, particularly over the use of the phrase “sealing device.” The consensus was that “sealing device” should be replaced by “gasket” in (b) and that the scientific disclaimer should be reworded to “There is no scientific or other evidence that any casket will preserve human remains.” It was also agreed that Section 1258 could be repealed and its reworded language moved to Section 1258.1.

The second half of the afternoon session centered on the amendments proposed to the existing enforcement funeral regulations (Division 12 of Title 16 of the California Code of Regulations Sections 1240, 1241, 1242, 1246, 1280, 1281, 1282, 1283, 1284, 1285, 1286, 1287, 1288, 1289, 1290, 1291). Attendees had no requested changes to the proposed language.

The proposed regulations will also be open for discussion at the Bureau’s next Advisory Committee meeting on November 15, 2012.
